²The Bloomberg Barclays Municipal Bond Index covers the USD-denominated long-term tax exempt bond market. The index has four main sectors: state and local general obligation bonds, revenue bonds, insured bonds, and prerefunded bonds. Many of the subindices of the Municipal Index have historical data to January 1980. In addition, several subindices based on maturity and revenue source have been created, some with inception dates after January 1980 but no later than July 1, 1993. In January 1996, Bloomberg also began publishing a non-investment grade municipal bond index and "enhanced" state-specific indices for Arizona, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Minnesota, and Ohio. These indices are published separately from the Bloomberg Barclays Municipal Bond Index. In 2005, Bloomberg began publishing Managed Money Municipal Bond Indices and Insurance Mandate Municipal Indices.

³Funds in the High-Yield Morningstar Category typically invest at least 50% of assets in high-income municipal securities that are not rated or that are rated by a major agency such as Standard & Poor's or Moody's at the level of BBB (considered part of the high-yield universe within the municipal industry) and below.

Investors cannot directly invest in an index; unmanaged index returns do not reflect any fees, expenses or sales charge.

A Liquid Alternative

The fund is designed to compliment and potentially enhance overall portfolio returns during periods of generally rising US municipal bonds, and a hedge during periods of falling price trends and/or rising interest rates. The fund may fit into one of several allocation objectives: Liquid Alternatives, Tactical Fixed Income, or Core Fixed Income.

- Seeks to deliver lower correlation to US municipal bond indexes
- Utilizes fixed income ETFs and index-based funds to generate long-short exposure
- Pursues less volatility compared to more traditional municipal bond strategies

Long/Short

Removing traditional long-only investment restrictions may offer a wider opportunity set to seek investment returns.

Low Correlation

Adding low correlated assets to a portfolio has potential diversification benefits and may reduce overall risk of a portfolio.

⁴As of 9/6/2016. Anchor Capital Management Group, Inc., serves as the Fund’s investment adviser. The adviser is registered with the SEC as an investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended. The adviser is a California Corporation formed in 1996. The Fund is a new mutual fund with a limited history of operations. There is no guarantee the Fund will achieve its investment objective.

Mutual Funds involve risk including the possible loss of principal. Municipal bonds are subject to the risk that legislative changes and local and business developments may adversely affect the yield or value of the Fund’s investments in such securities. ETFs in which the Fund invests will not be able to replicate exactly the performance of the indices they track and may result in a loss. There is a risk that issuers and counter parties will not make payments on securities and other investments held by the Fund, resulting in losses to the Fund. The Fund may engage in short sales which may increase the risk of loss associated with any appreciation on the price of a security borrowed in connection with a short sale. Fixed income securities may decline in value because of changes in interest rates. The use of credit default swaps (“CDS”) may not always be successful. Derivative instruments involve risks different from, or possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in securities and other traditional investments. Investments in foreign securities could subject the Fund to greater risks including, currency fluctuation, economic conditions, and different governmental and accounting standards.

In addition to the risks generally associated with investing in securities of foreign companies, countries with emerging markets also may have relatively unstable governments, social and legal systems that do not protect shareholders, economies based on only a few industries, and securities markets that trade a small number of issues. High yield securities or unrated securities of similar credit quality (commonly known as “junk bonds”) are more likely to default than higher rated securities. Although hedging is intended to limit or reduce investment risk, hedging strategies may also limit or reduce the potential for profit. The Adviser may be incorrect in its assessment of the intrinsic value of the securities the Fund holds which may result in a decline in the value of Fund shares. The models used by the Fund to determine or guide investment decisions may not achieve the objectives of the Fund. Increased portfolio turnover may result in higher brokerage commissions, dealer mark-ups and other transaction costs and may result in taxable capital gains.
