²For comparison purposes, the Fund is measured against the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index. The index measures the performance of the U.S. investment grade bond market. The index invests in a wide spectrum of public, investment-grade, taxable, fixed income securities in the United States – including government, corporate, and international dollar-denominated bonds, as well as mortgage-backed and asset-backed securities, all with maturities of more than 1 year. Investors cannot directly invest in an index; unmanaged index returns do not reflect any fees, expenses or sales charge.

³The Morningstar Long-Short Credit category seeks to profit from changes in the credit conditions of individual bond issuers and credit markets segments represented by credit indexes. Typically, portfolios purchase bonds, or sell credit default swaps, with the expectation of profiting from narrowing credit spreads; or, the funds sell bonds, or purchase credit default swaps, with the expectation of profiting from the deteriorating credit of the underlying issuer. This category includes funds that use credit derivatives to hedge systematic risk of credit markets to isolate credit selection returns. Funds in this category frequently use derivatives to hedge interest rate risk.

A Liquid Alternative

The fund is designed to compliment and potentially enhance overall portfolio returns during periods of rising prices, and a hedge during periods of falling price trends. The fund may fit into one of several allocation objectives: Alternative, Fixed Income, High Yield Bond or Core Fixed Income.

- Seeks to provide income and price stability regardless of bond price trends
- Utilizes High Yield and Treasury ETFs to generate long-short exposure
- Pursues low volatility and low correlation to other asset classes

Long/Short

Removing traditional long-only investment restrictions may offer a wider opportunity set to seek investment returns.

Low Correlation

Adding low correlated assets to a portfolio has potential diversification benefits and may reduce overall risk of a portfolio.

⁴As of 9/6/2016. Anchor Capital Management Group, Inc., serves as the Fund's investment adviser. The adviser is registered with the SEC as an investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended. The adviser is a California Corporation formed in 1996. Mutual Funds involve risk including the possible loss of principal. ETFs in which the Fund invests will not be able to replicate exactly the performance of the indices they track and may result in a loss. The earnings and prospects of small and medium sized companies are more volatile than larger companies and may experience higher failure rates than larger companies. There is a risk that issuers and counter parties will not make payments on securities and other investments held by the Fund, resulting in losses to the Fund. The Fund may engage in short sales which may increase the risk of loss associated with any appreciation on the price of a security borrowed in connection with a short sale. Derivative instruments involve risks different from, or possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in securities and other traditional investments. Counter-party to a transaction with the Fund may be unable or unwilling to make timely principal, interest or settlement payments, or otherwise honor its obligations. Investments in foreign securities could subject the Fund to greater risks including, currency fluctuation, economic conditions, and different governmental and accounting standards.

In addition to the risks generally associated with investing in securities of foreign companies, countries with emerging markets also may have relatively unstable governments, social and legal systems that do not protect shareholders, economies based on only a few industries, and securities markets that trade a small number of issues. Although hedging is intended to limit or reduce investment risk, hedging strategies may also limit or reduce the potential for profit. Investments in lesser-known, small and medium capitalization companies may be more vulnerable than larger, more established organizations. The Adviser may be incorrect in its assessment of the intrinsic value of the securities the Fund holds which may result in a decline in the value of Fund shares. The models used by the Fund to determine or guide investment decisions may not achieve the objectives of the Fund. Increased portfolio turnover may result in higher brokerage commissions, dealer mark-ups and other transaction costs and may result in taxable capital gains.
